THE PLAINTIFF'S CLAIM

Part 1: STATEMENT OF FACTS

Overview

1. Consumers expect to pay the lowest price that a company represents a product will cost at a given time. Parliament has codified this principle through sections 52, 52(1.3), and 54 of the Competition Act, RSC 1985, c C-34 (the “Competition Act”) which require that companies represent the full cost of a product upfront, prohibiting companies from tacking on additional fees or charging the higher of two different advertised prices for a product. These provisions ensure that companies’ pricing practices are fair, straightforward, and not deceptive.

2. Through its website and mobile app, Taskrabbbit has engaged in conduct contrary to the Competition Act, the Business Practices and Consumer Protection Act, SBC 2004 c 2 (the “BPCPA”), and consumer protection legislation in other provinces in its pricing of its services. This same conduct has resulted in Taskrabbbit being unjustly enriched. Taskrabbbit represents a price for its services that is, unbeknownst to consumers, unattainable, and thereafter increases the purchase price once a consumer is further along in the purchasing process. Taskrabbbit’s practice of concealing the full cost of, and/or representing two different prices for, its services is unfair and in violation of Canadian law.

The Parties

3. The Plaintiff, Kris Mangion, is a resident of British Columbia. The Plaintiff purchased Taskrabbbit’s Booking Services, as defined below, for both personal and business use. The Plaintiff’s purchase of Booking Services and Taskrabbbit’s accompanying pricing representations are summarized in the table appended as Schedule A to this notice of civil claim.

4. The Plaintiff brings this action on his own behalf and on behalf of all persons in Canada who paid a Trust and Support Fee to use the Booking Services through taskrabbbit.ca or Taskrabbbit’s mobile application, including a subclass of individuals who paid to use the Booking Services for primarily personal, family, or household use (the “Consumer Subclass” and “Consumer Subclass Members”) from the date on which Taskrabbit began charging Trust and Support Fees in Canada until the date that this action is certified as a class proceeding (the “Class”, “Class Members”, and “Class Period”).

5. The Defendant TaskRabbit, Inc. is a company incorporated pursuant to the laws of the State of Delaware with a registered address for service of c/o Incorporating Services, Ltd. at 3500 South Dupont Highway, Dover, Delaware, USA.

6. The Defendant TaskRabbit Canada Operations Inc. is a company incorporated pursuant to the laws of the British Columbia with a registered address for service at 3000 – 1055 Dunsmuir Street, Vancouver, BC. TaskRabbit Canada Operations Inc. is a wholly owned subsidiary of TaskRabbit, Inc, operating in the Canadian marketplace.

7. TaskRabbit, Inc. and TaskRabbit Canada Operations Inc. are collectively “Taskrabbit”. At all material times, the Defendants functioned as a joint enterprise within which the Defendants individually and jointly operated and made pricing representations regarding the Booking Services. Each of the Defendants is an agent of the other for the purposes of the conduct alleged in this claim. Taskrabbit carries on business in Canada, including British Columbia, by making their Booking Services available for use by Canadians in Canada.

Taskrabbit’s Booking Services

8. Taskrabbit operates a platform through which users can hire service providers to complete a variety of tasks, including home repairs, furniture assembly, and cleaning. Taskrabbit’s platform is available through its website, taskrabbit.ca, and mobile application, Taskrabbit (the “Taskrabbit Mobile Application”). The website taskrabbit.ca and the Taskrabbit Mobile Application are the “Platforms”. The Platforms function in a substantially similar manner. The access to and use of the Platforms to hire service providers constitute the “Booking Services”.

The Trust and Support Fee

9. Taskrabbit charges a “Trust and Support Fee” to use the Booking Services without disclosing this fee at the outset of the purchasing process. The Trust and Support

Fee is not imposed by Act of Parliament or the legislature of a province. As of the date of filing this Notice of Civil Claim, the Trust and Support Fee is equal to approximately 17.1% of the First Price, defined below. Taskrabbit previously charged a Trust and Support Fee of approximately 15% of the First Price and may have charged different amounts at other times throughout the Class Period. The manner in which the Trust and Support Fee was presented to Class Members during the purchasing process was consistent throughout the Class Period. The amount of the Trust and Support Fee imposed throughout the Class Period is known to the Defendants.

Using Taskrabbit's Booking Services

www.taskrabbit.ca

10. To access the Booking Services on www.taskrabbit.ca, users must create or log into an account. After creating or logging into their account, a user must select the task they are seeking to hire a service provider, known as a “Tasker”, to complete, provide details of the task, and enter the location where the task is to be completed. After entering this information, the user is taken to a webpage where Taskrabbit represents the hourly rate of hiring a Tasker through the Platform (the “First Price”). In the following example, Taskrabbit represents the First Price of hiring the Tasker through the Platform as $54.28 per hour.

11. After a user clicks “Select & Continue” on the profile of the Tasker they are seeking to hire, the user is presented with a pop-up through which the user can select a date and time based on the Tasker’s availability. Taskrabbt does not represent any prices on this pop-up window.

12. After a user selects a date and time and clicks “Select & Continue”, the user is taken to a webpage on which the user is invited to enter and/or confirm their payment information. On this webpage, Taskrabbt represents, for the first time, that the user will be charged a Trust and Support Fee, plus applicable tax, in addition to the First Price.

You will not be billed until your task is complete. Tasks have a one-hour minimum. You can cancel or reschedule anytime. If you cancel your task within 24 hours of the scheduled start time, you may be billed a one-hour cancellation fee at the Tasker's hourly rate.

13. In this example, instead of charging the represented First Price of $54.28 per hour for hiring the selected Tasker through the Platform, Taskrabbt charges $63.56 per hour

($54.28 per hour + $9.28 per hour), plus tax on the Trust and Support Fee. The First Price plus the Trust and Support Fee and tax on the Trust and Support Fee is the “Second Price”.

14. Taskrabbit does not disclose the fact or amount of the Trust and Support Fee until after a user selects a task type and navigates through the “Describe your task”, “Browse Taskers & prices”, and “Choose date & time” webpages. Clicking the “Trust and Support fee” hyperlink opens a new webpage wherein Taskrabbit defines the Trust and Support Fee.

What's the Taskrabbit Trust & Support Fee?

Taskrabbit applies a Trust & Support fee to all invoices. Expenses and reimbursements are not subject to this fee. You'll see this fee as a separate item on your receipt once the task is complete.

This fee helps to support:

- The Taskrabbit Happiness Pledge.
- Operational and safety measures to protect users.
- Investment in our Customer Support Team.
- Tools, team training, and channels to support you in getting your task completed.

Don't worry—the Trust & Support fee doesn't affect what a Tasker is paid.

15. To confirm the booking, users must enter and/or confirm their payment information and click “Confirm and chat”. Users can view information about their booking, including the First Price, by clicking the “My Tasks” tab. Taskrabbit does not represent the Trust and Support Fee on this webpage.

The Taskrabbit Mobile Application

16. To access the Booking Services on the Taskrabbit Mobile Application, users must select a task and enter their task location. After entering this information, the user is taken to a mobile page where Taskrabbit represents the First Price for hiring various Taskers through the Platform. For example, Taskrabbit represents the First Price of hiring the two exemplified Taskers through the Platform as $54.28 per hour and $55.48 per hour.

17. After a user selects a Tasker, the user is taken to a mobile page where Taskrabbbit provides additional information about the Tasker. Taskrabbbit again represents the First Price on this mobile page.

18. After a user clicks "Select", the user is presented with a pop-up on which the user can select a date and time based on the Tasker's availability. Taskrabbbit does not make any pricing representations on this pop-up.

19. After a user selects a time and date and clicks "Select & Continue", the user is taken to a mobile page and prompted to enter details about the task. Taskrabbbit does not represent any prices on this mobile page.

20. After a user selects “Review task”, the user is taken to a mobile page on which they can enter their payment information. On this mobile page, Taskrabbit represents, for the first time, that the user will be charged a Trust and Support Fee, plus applicable tax, in addition to the First Price (i.e. the Second Price). Taskrabbit also represents the Second Price less tax on the Trust and Support Fee.

21. In this example, instead of charging the represented First Price of $55.48 per hour for hiring the selected Tasker through the Platform, Taskrabbit charges $64.96 per hour ($55.48 per hour + $9.48 per hour), plus tax on the Trust and Support Fee (i.e. the Second Price).

22. Taskrabbit does not disclose the fact or amount of the Trust and Support Fee until after a user selects a task type and task location, chooses a Tasker, and provides additional details about the task. Clicking the “Trust and Support fee” hyperlink opens the same webpage excerpted at paragraph 14, above, wherein Taskrabbit defines the Trust and Support Fee.

23. To confirm the booking, users must enter and/or confirm their payment information and click “Confirm and chat”. Users can view information about their booking, including the First Price, by clicking “View details” on the “Tasks” tab. Taskrabbit does not represent the Trust and Support Fee on this mobile page.

24. Taskrabbit also represents the Second Price on the Taskrabbit Mobile Application under the “Receipt” tab, accessed by clicking the “Completed” tab on the “My Tasks” webpage, once the Tasker has completed the assigned task.

Taskrabbit’s Misconduct

25. At material times, Taskrabbit represented and clearly expressed that the Booking Services were available at the First Price. Taskrabbit represented and clearly expressed the First Price on the Platforms, each of which constitutes a point-of-purchase display.

26. At material times further along in the purchasing process, Taskrabbit then represented that the Booking Services were available only at the Second Price. Taskrabbit did this on the Platforms, each of which constitutes a point-of-purchase display.

27. At material times, the Booking Services were not available at the First Price due to the addition of the Trust and Support Fee, which constitutes a fixed obligatory charge or fee imposed by Taskrabbit.

28. At material times, Taskrabbit represented two different prices for the Booking Services.

29. Taskrabbit did not represent the Trust and Support Fee or the Second Price when it represented the First Price to users. The Second Price exceeded the First Price. Taskrabbit charged, and users paid, the Second Price.

30. At material times, Taskrabbit represented the First Price and the Second Price at different stages of the same booking process. Taskrabbit did not add an additional service element or provide an additional service when it added the Trust and Support Fee. The Booking Services remained the same product at every stage of the booking process.

31. Taskrabbit’s representation of the First Price was false and misleading because users were never able to pay the First Price but instead had to pay the higher Second Price.

32. At material times, Taskrabbit knew or was reckless or willfully blind to the fact that representing that the Booking Services would cost the First Price was false or misleading in a material respect because these products were never available at the First Price.

33. At material times, Taskrabbit exercised total control over the pricing of the Booking Services and how they represented this information to the Plaintiff and Class Members.

34. At material times, there existed a cognitive asymmetry between Taskrabbit and the Plaintiff and Class Members as to how the prices of the Booking Services were represented.

35. At material times, the reasonable expectations of the Plaintiff and Class Members regarding the Booking Services at the times that they viewed the First Price included, inter alia, that:

- a) the Booking Services would be attainable at the First Price; and
- b) the First Price was an accurate representation of the price at which the Plaintiff and Class Members could purchase the Booking Services.

36. At material times, and contrary to the reasonable expectations of the Plaintiff and Class Members, the material terms and conditions of the bargain for the Booking Services included, inter alia:

- a) the Booking Services could not be purchased for the First Price; and/or
- b) the First Price was not an accurate representation of the price at which the Plaintiff and Class Members could purchase the Booking Services.

37. At material times, the terms and conditions of the bargain for the Booking Services violated the reasonable expectations of the Plaintiff and Class Members.

38. Taskrabbit obtained a portion of the purchase price paid by the Plaintiff and Class Members for the Booking Services as a result of Taskrabbit's breaches of the Competition Act, the BPCPA, and/or related provincial consumer protection legislation.

39. The Plaintiff and Class Members were the source of the money acquired by Taskrabbbit, in the form and quantity of some of the purchase price paid by them for the Booking Services.

40. The Plaintiff and Class Members each have an interest in some of the funds received from them by Taskrabbbit, either directly or indirectly, for the Booking Services.

41. The Plaintiff has sent a letter to Taskrabbbit advising therein that Consumer Subclass Members who are “consumers” within the meaning of the Consumer Protection Act (2002), SO 2002, c 30, Sched. A (the “Ontario CPA”), the Business Practices Act, RSPEI 1988, c B-7 (the “PEI BPA”), the Consumer Protection Act, RSA 2000, c C-26.3 (the “Alberta CPA”), and the Consumer Protection Act, SNB 2024 c 1 (the “New Brunswick CPA”) seek damages and/or restitution pursuant to the Ontario CPA, the PEI BPA, the Alberta CPA, and the New Brunswick CPA, respectively, due to Taskrabbbit’s misconduct particularized in this Notice of Civil Claim. In the alternative, the notice requirements in the Ontario CPA, PEI BPA, Alberta CPA, and New Brunswick CPA are fulfilled by the filing of this Notice of Civil Claim. In the further alternative, the interests of justice warrant dispensing of the notice requirement for Consumer Subclass Members in Ontario, PEI, Alberta, and New Brunswick.

42. Taskrabbbit entered into contracts with the Plaintiff and Class Members for the sale and supply of the Booking Services. Taskrabbbit has been enriched by the receipt of some of the purchase price paid by the Plaintiff and Class Members and received by Taskrabbbit, directly or indirectly, for the Booking Services. The Plaintiff and Class Members have suffered a corresponding deprivation of these same amounts.

Harm to the Plaintiff and Class Members

43. As a result of Taskrabbbit’s breach(es) of the Competition Act, the Plaintiff and Class Members suffered loss and/or damage in an amount equal to the Trust and Support Fees, plus taxes on the Trust and Support Fees, paid by the Plaintiff and Class Members during the Class Period.

44. As a result of Taskrabbit's breach(es) of the BPCPA and/or related provincial consumer protection legislation, the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members suffered loss and/or damage in an amount equal to the Trust and Support Fees, plus taxes on the Trust and Support Fees, paid by the Plaintiff and Class Members during the Class Period.

45. Due to Taskrabbit's representations that the Booking Services were available at the First Price, the Plaintiff and Class Members obtained less value for money than they had expected to obtain after having viewed the First Price because the Booking Services were unattainable at the First Price and could only be purchased at the Second Price.

46. Further or in the alternative, Taskrabbit's representations that the Booking Services were available at the First Price caused the price of the Booking Services to be higher than the market otherwise would have tolerated absent this conduct.

Part 2: RELIEF SOUGHT

47. The Plaintiff claims on his own behalf and on behalf of other members of the Class:

- a) an order certifying this action as a class proceeding under the Class Proceedings Act, RSBC 1996, c 50 (the "Class Proceedings Act");
- b) appointing him as representative Plaintiff under the Class Proceedings Act;
- c) a declaration that Taskrabbit has engaged in conduct contrary to Part VI of the Competition Act;
- d) damages under section 36 of the Competition Act, in an amount which includes but is not limited to the Trust and Support Fees, plus taxes on the Trust and Support Fees, paid by the Plaintiff and Class Members during the Class Period;
- e) costs of investigation and prosecution of this proceeding pursuant to section 36 of the Competition Act;
- e) a declaration under section 172(1)(a) of the BPCPA that Taskrabbit has breached sections 4-5 and/or 8-9 of the BPCPA;

- f) an injunction under subsection 172(1)(b) of the BPCPA to restrain further breaches of the BPCPA by requiring Taskrabbit to represent the full price of its Booking Services at the outset of the purchasing process on the Platforms;
- g) damages under section 171 of the BPCPA, in an amount which includes but is not limited to the Trust and Support Fees, plus taxes on the Trust and Support Fees, paid by the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members during the Class Period;
- h) a restoration order under section 172(3)(a) of the BPCPA in the amount of the Trust and Support Fees, plus taxes on the Trust and Support Fees, paid by the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members during the Class Period;
- i) relief for contraventions of extra-provincial consumer protection legislation (collectively with the BPCPA, the “Consumer Protection Legislation”), as follows:
 - i. damages and/or restitution pursuant to subsections 7(1), 7(3), 13(2), and/or 142.1(2) of the Alberta CPA;
 - ii. damages and/or restitution pursuant to subsection 93(1) of The Consumer Protection and Business Practices Act, SS 2014, c C-30.2;
 - iii. damages and/or repayment pursuant to subsection 23(2) of The Business Practices Act, CCSM, c B120;
 - iv. damages, or in the alternative restitution, pursuant to subsections 18(1) and/or 18(2) of the Ontario CPA;
 - v. damages, or in the alternative restitution, pursuant to subsection 4(1) of the PEI BPA;
 - vi. damages pursuant to section 10 of the Consumer Protection and Business Practices Act, SNL 2009, c C-31.1; and

- vii. damages pursuant to subsections 14(2) and/or 16(3) of the New Brunswick CPA;
- j) a declaration that Taskrabbit has been unjustly enriched by the receipt of some, or all, of the purchase price paid by the Plaintiff and Class Members and received by Taskrabbit, directly or indirectly, for the Booking Services;
- k) an order that Taskrabbit account for and make restitution to the Plaintiff and Class Members an amount equal to the amount by which Taskrabbit is found to have been unjustly enriched;
- l) pre-judgment and post-judgment interest under the Court Order Interest Act, RSBC 1996, c 79 (the “Court Order Interest Act”); and
- m) such further and other relief as this Honourable Court may deem just.

Part 3: LEGAL BASIS

48. The Plaintiff and Class Members plead and rely on the Competition Act, the Consumer Protection Legislation, the Class Proceedings Act, the Limitation Act, SBC 2012, c 13, the Limitation Act, RSBC 1996, c 266, the Court Order Interest Act, the Court Jurisdiction And Proceedings Transfer Act, SBC 2003, c 28 (the “Court Jurisdiction And Proceedings Transfer Act”), the Supreme Court Civil Rules, and related enactments.

Competition Act – General Provisions

49. The Competition Act applies to business transacted in Canada. Taskrabbit has breached sections 52, 52(1.3), and/or 54 of the Competition Act, as amended from time to time.

50. The Booking Services constitute a “product” within the meaning of sections 2, 52, 52(1.3), and 54 of the Competition Act.

Competition Act – Sections 52 and 52(1.3) (False or Misleading Representations and Drip Pricing)

51. Section 52 of the Competition Act prohibits false or misleading representations.

52. Section 52(1.3) of the Competition Act prescribes that making a representation of a price that is not attainable due to fixed obligatory charges or fees constitutes a false or misleading representation. This conduct is known as drip pricing.

53. Taskrabbit breached sections 52 and/or 52(1.3) of the Competition Act by representing that the Booking Services were available at the First Price when Taskrabbit knew or was reckless or willfully blind to the fact that this representation was false or misleading in a material respect.

54. Taskrabbit's representations that the Booking Services were available at the First Price were false or misleading in a material respect because the Booking Services were not attainable at the First Price due to the addition of the Trust and Support Fee, which constitutes a fixed obligatory charge and/or fee imposed by Taskrabbit.

55. This conduct was done for the purpose of promoting, directly or indirectly, the supply or use of the Booking Services and Taskrabbit's business interests in attracting customers to purchase the Booking Services.

56. The First Price was represented on a point-of-purchase display or was otherwise made available to members of the public.

Competition Act – Section 54 (Double Ticketing)

57. Further, and in the alternative, Taskrabbit breached section 54 of the Competition Act.

58. Section 54 of the Competition Act prohibits the supply of a product at a price that exceeds the lowest of two or more prices which are clearly expressed on, inter alia, a point-of-purchase display. This conduct is referred to as double ticketing.

59. Taskrabbit expressed both the First Price and the Second Price on the point-of-purchase displays on the Platforms and supplied the Booking Services at the Second Price, which exceeded the First Price.

60. Taskrabbat at all times controlled how prices were displayed on the point-of-purchase displays on the Platforms, and Taskrabbat at all times knew or was reckless or willfully blind to its representation of two different prices for the same product.

Competition Act - Damages

61. As a result of Taskrabbat's breach(es) of sections 52, 52(1.3), and/or 54 of the Competition Act, the Plaintiff and Class Members suffered loss and/or damage. In particular, by paying the Second Price for the Booking Services, the Plaintiff and Class Members obtained less value for money than they expected to obtain after having viewed the First Price because the Booking Services were unattainable at the First Price and could only be purchased at the Second Price. Further or in the alternative, Taskrabbat's breach(es) of the Competition Act caused the prices of the Booking Services to be higher than the market would otherwise would have tolerated absent this conduct. By paying these higher prices, the Plaintiff and Class Members suffered loss and/or damage.

62. The Plaintiff and Class Members were entitled to pay Taskrabbat only the First Price multiplied by the number of hours their Tasker worked, plus lawful taxes, for the Booking Services. The Plaintiff and Class Members are entitled to damages in an amount equal to the Trust and Support Fees, plus taxes on the Trust and Support Fees, paid by them during the Class Period. Further or in the alternative, the Plaintiff and Class Members are entitled to damages equal to the amount that they would have paid for the Booking Services absent Taskrabbat's conduct in breach of the Competition Act.

Business Practices and Consumer Protection Act – General Provisions

63. Taskrabbat has breached the BPCPA.

64. The Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members are “consumers” within the meaning of section 1 of the BPCPA. The Booking Services are “services” within the meaning of section 1. Taskrabbat is a “supplier” within the meaning of section 1. The sale and/or supply of each of the Booking Services in British Columbia is a “consumer transaction” within the meaning of section 1.

65. Consumer Subclass Members resident outside of British Columbia additionally plead and rely on the equivalent provisions of the other Consumer Protection Legislation applicable to them, each as amended from time to time and with regulations in force at material times, as set out in Schedule B to this Notice of Civil Claim.

Business Practices and Consumer Protection Act – Sections 4-5 (Deceptive Acts or Practices)

66. Taskrabbit has breached sections 4-5 of the BPCPA. Taskrabbit's actions constitute deceptive acts or practices.

67. Section 5 of the BPCPA prohibits suppliers from engaging in deceptive acts or practices in respect of consumer transactions. Once it is alleged that a supplier committed or engaged in a deceptive act or practice, the burden of proof that the deceptive act or practice was not committed or engaged in is on the supplier.

68. Taskrabbit engaged in conduct contrary to, inter alia, subsections 4(3)(a)(v)-(vi), 4(3)(b)(vi), and/or 4(3)(c)(i)-(ii) by representing:

- a) that the Booking Services were available at the First Price when these services were not available at the First Price and were only available at the Second Price; and/or
- b) two different prices for the Booking Services (i.e. the First Price and the Second Price) and charging the higher of the two prices (i.e. the Second Price).

69. Further and in the alternative, the entire process users must go through to use the Booking Services set out in paragraphs 10 to 15 and 16 to 24 above is deceptive because the manner and sequence in which the First Price and Second Price are presented to the user has the capability, tendency, or effect of deceiving or misleading a consumer regarding the price they are paying and/or the value they are receiving for the Booking Services.

70. Taskrabbit breached sections 4-5 of the BPCPA regardless of whether their conduct was contrary to any of the factors enumerated under subsection 4(3) as their conduct had the capability, tendency, or effect of deceiving or misleading the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members.

Business Practices and Consumer Protection Act – Sections 8-9 (Unconscionable Acts or Practices)

71. Taskrabbit has breached sections 8-9 of the BPCPA. Taskrabbit's actions constitute unconscionable acts or practices.

72. Section 9 of the BPCPA prohibits suppliers from engaging in unconscionable acts or practices in respect of consumer transactions. Once it is alleged that a supplier committed or engaged in an unconscionable act or practice, the burden of proof that the unconscionable act or practice was not committed or engaged in is on the supplier.

73. That the above-described conduct constitutes an unconscionable act or practice is informed by the circumstances enumerated under subsection 8(3) of the BPCPA, and in particular subsection 8(3)(b). However, Taskrabbit's conduct breached sections 8-9 of the BPCPA regardless of whether it was contrary to any of the factors enumerated under subsection 8(3).

74. Through their total control over the pricing of the Booking Services and how this information was represented to the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members, Taskrabbit misled consumers as to the price of the Booking Services. Taskrabbit's total control over the pricing of the Booking Services and how they represented this information created a cognitive asymmetry whereby the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members could not understand or appreciate important terms and conditions of the bargain for the Booking Services, namely that:

- a) the Booking Services could not be purchased for the First Price; and/or
- b) the First Price was not an accurate representation of the price at which the Plaintiff and Class Members could purchase the Booking Services.

75. These terms and conditions of the bargains between Taskrabbit and Consumer Subclass Members were inequitable and/or excessive because they violated the reasonable expectations of the Consumer Subclass Members at the time that they viewed the First Price, including, inter alia, that:

- a) the Booking Services would be attainable at the First Price; and
- b) the First Price was an accurate representation of the price at which the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members could purchase the Booking Services.

76. The Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members have been unduly disadvantaged by these inequitable and/or excessive terms and conditions of the bargain for the Booking Services as a result of acquiring less value for money than they expected to receive when they viewed the First Price. Taskrabbit was unduly advantaged through their unlawful receipt of these amounts.

77. The cognitive asymmetry resulting from Taskrabbit's total control of the pricing of the Booking Services and how they represented this information amounted to an inequality of bargaining power which created the potential for Taskrabbit to receive an undue advantage, and for the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members to be unduly disadvantaged. This potential was realized when Taskrabbit leveraged the cognitive asymmetry between the parties and misrepresented the estimated value of the Booking Services at the First Price. These misrepresentations, the falsehood which the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members were ignorant to as a result of the cognitive asymmetry, resulted in the bargain for the Booking Services being improvident. Taskrabbit has therefore committed an unconscionable act or practice.

Business Practices and Consumer Protection Act - Remedies

78. The Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members have an interest in, and were the source of, the funds received from them by Taskrabbit for the Booking Services obtained due to Taskrabbit's breach(es) of sections 4-5 and/or 8-9 of the BPCPA.

79. The Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members are entitled to a declaration under subsection 172(1)(a) of the BPCPA that Taskrabbit has breached sections 4-5 and/or 8-9 of the BPCPA.

80. The Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members are entitled to an injunction under subsection 172(1)(b) of the BPCPA to restrain further breaches of the BPCPA by requiring Taskrabbit to represent the full price of using its Booking Services at the outset of the purchasing process on the Platforms.

81. As a result of Taskrabbit's breach(es) of sections 4-5 and/or 8-9 of the BPCPA, the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members have suffered loss and/or damage. In particular, by paying the Second Price for the Booking Services, the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members obtained less value for money than they had expected to obtain after having viewed the First Price because the Booking Services were unattainable at the First Price and could only be purchased at the Second Price. Further or in the alternative, Taskrabbit's breach(es) of the BPCPA caused the prices of the Booking Services to be higher than the market otherwise would have tolerated absent this conduct. By paying these higher prices, the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members suffered loss and/or damage.

82. The Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members were entitled to pay Taskrabbit only the First Price multiplied by the number of hours their Tasker worked, plus lawful taxes, for the Booking Services. The Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members are entitled to damages in an amount equal to the Trust and Support Fees, plus taxes on the Trust and Support Fees, paid by them during the Class Period. Further or in the alternative, the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members are entitled to damages equal to the amount that they would have paid for the Booking Services absent Taskrabbit's conduct in breach of the BPCPA.

83. These same breaches entitle the Plaintiff and Consumer Subclass Members to restoration of the Trust and Support Fees, plus taxes on the Trust and Support Fees, paid by them during the Class Period pursuant to subsection 172(3)(a).

Unjust Enrichment

84. As set out above, Taskrabbit has been unjustly enriched by the amounts received from the Plaintiff and Class Members, directly or indirectly, through the sale of the Booking Services. The Plaintiff and Class Members have suffered a corresponding deprivation of this same amount.

85. There is no juristic reason for Taskrabbit to retain these benefits as the contracts between Taskrabbit and the Plaintiff and Class Members are illegal, void, and/or voidable due to Taskrabbit's breaches of sections 52, 52(1.3), and/or 54 of the Competition Act.

86. The Plaintiff and Class Members are entitled to restitution for the benefits received from them by Taskrabbit, directly or indirectly, on account of the sale of the Booking Services in Canada.

Limitation Periods

87. Class Members who paid for the Booking Services on or after June 1, 2013 plead and rely on the doctrine of discoverability and section 8 of the Limitation Act, SBC 2012, c 13 to postpone the running of the limitation period. Class Members who paid for the Booking Services on or before May 31, 2013 plead and rely on subsection 6(4) of the Limitation Act, RSBC 1996, c 266 to postpone the running of the limitation period. Class Members could not have reasonably known that a claim existed against Taskrabbit until the date on which this Notice of Civil Claim was filed.

Joint and Several Liability

88. TaskRabbit, Inc. and TaskRabbit Canada Operations Inc. are jointly and severally liable for the actions and damages allocable to either of them with respect to the sale and/or use of the Booking Services in Canada.
